

2007 North American Sea Glass Festival

Sponsored by the North American
Sea Glass Association

Program

Saturday October 6th

Exhibits open 11am to 5pm (member preview at 10am)
Shard Identification Booth - open 11am to 4pm
(limit 10 pieces per visitor)

Lecture 2:00-3:00pm
“Great Lakes Beach Glass”
Jennifer Reed and Russ
Thompson of Relish Inc.

Growing up near the shores of Lake Erie has given Jennifer a well rounded knowledge of how the geographic qualities, the history of shipwrecks and the unique salinity levels of the Great Lakes effect the condition and beauty of fresh water sea glass. Along with probable origins of Great Lakes glass, this lecture will feature photos and Great Lakes stories.

Lecture 4:00pm
Small Group Workshop
“Stories From The Sea and Heart”
Cindy Kuhn of Tears
From the Deep.

If truth be told, there are some of us walking about the planet with pockets occupied with treasures found in or near the water's edge; sea glass being one of those treasures. This experienced small group facilitator and sea glass enthusiast will provide a place to where you can share your story of sea glass with others who'll understand and appreciate why these weathered pieces of glass are so captivating and meaningful. The number of participants is limited so please sign up at the front NASGA table for this workshop if you plan to attend. We'll gather near the Sun Room refreshment bar and, from there, find a lovely spot out on the beach whereupon we'll sit and share our stories.

Sunday October 7th

Exhibits open 11am to 5pm
Shard of the Year Contest 12 noon to 4:30pm
(entries 12 noon to 3pm, awards at 4:30pm)

Lecture 1:00pm
“Unlocking Secrets
of Sea Glass”
Richard LaMotte of Sea
Glass Publishing.

This noted researcher, writer and appraiser will lecture on determining where and when to search for sea glass in your area, the corrosion process, identification of shards and tips on estimating the value of your sea glass pieces.

Lecture 2:00pm
“There Came a Tsunami
Warning So I Grabbed my Sea Glass and Ran”
Mary Beth Beuke of West
Coast Sea Glass.

This lifelong collector and photographer will present a colorful, pictorial that highlights the unexpected adventure which revolves around any collector's compelling journey and sometimes irrational attraction to sea glass. Hear stories of discovery and beauty as she chronicles a personal voyage as well as charting the course and world-origin of several rare, museum quality sea glass pieces which she's determined to hang onto.

Shard of the Year Contest
